A CHAMPION OF SILVER.

How General Adoniram Warner Has Pushed Himself to the Front.

General Adoniram J. Warner is just now filling a large place on the public horizon. He was born in New York, educated in Wisconsin, and taught school in Pennsylvania. He fought valiantly in the war as an officer in one of the regiments of the last-named State, and then went to Ohio, where he studied law and engaged in other pursuits. Finally, turning up as a politician, he was elected a Representative from the Fifteenth District in the Forty-sixth Congress, re-elected to the Forty-eighth, and returned to the Forty-ninth. General Warner is a very large man, tall, heavy and dark. His face is scarred with the marks of smallpox. He walks with difficulty, as he is still disabled by a severe wound he received at Antietam. To help his step he carries a famous crookneck cane, which he hangs over one arm when excited, while he threatens his adversary with the long forefinger of his free hand. He talks loud and long, but he is a studious and wide-awake man, so that there is generally some pith in what he says.

Once in Congress he pushed himself directly to the front as a champion of the old soldier. He and General Ambrose Vesputus Rice, of Ohio, had quite a rivalry in this specialty. Both were Union Generals, both Democrats, both crippled with wounds, both Ohio Representatives, and both, like Chatham, made their crutches a useful auxiliary in debates. It was the desire of both to outdo the Republicans in liberalizing the pension laws, and owing in great degree to their labors in this direct on the Arr-rears of Pensions Act and other generous legislation was passed.

General Warner, however, did not confine himself to the cause of the soldier, but at an early day took a leading part in the silver debates, and from the first has managed to keep himself before the people as a leader in this field, though not recognized as such in the organization of the House. In the late Congress he was not on any of the finance or important committees, but by stubborn work on the floor he obliged Congress to listen to his views. He is now acting as a sort of feeler for the Administration, and is trying to get the sentiment of the whole country without committing anybody. He some time ago proposed a compromise silver bill, which was greatly modified at the suggestion of the representatives of the anti-silver sentiment. His visit to the Capital this time was for the purpose of presenting this modified bill to the members of the Administration for their opinion. This having been done, and a few changes made according to suggestions, he now announces that the bill will be submitted privately to members of Congress and all the bankers and financiers of the country, with a request for their views on the subject.

Mr. Warner says that the bill in its present form has been approved of by several very prominent silver men and quite a number of the opposition, including Mr. Williams, President of the Chemical National Bank of New York. The main features of the bill are about as has already been stated. The silver certificates are to be issued upon the market value of silver. This value is to be determined either by the market of the previous month or else the previous day, the latter being favored by Mr. Warner.

SALT LAKE CITY, October 1st, 1885.

Mr. H. E. Grow:

Dear Sir:—I cheerfully give you my testimonial to the efficacy of your treatment by electricity. I was severely afflicted with sciatica rheumatism, but am now happy to state entirely cured by your treatment, and recommend the same to all those afflicted with the disease.

JAMES W. ROSS.

Bishop Nineteenth Ward.

SALT LAKE CITY, October 12, 1885.

Mr. H. E. Grow:

Dear Sir:—Previous to coming to you for electric treatment I had suffered for many years and had sought relief from the best physicians both in Europe and America without much benefit, but am thankful that I can state that through your treatment I have been greatly benefited.

Very Respectfully,

VIRGIL CLIFT.

Clift Row, West Temple Street.

H. E. Grow, Esq.

Dear Sir:—For nine months succeeding the birth of my last child, my suffering was most intense. I was afflicted with constipation, vertigo, lumbago, and a complication of other ailments, from which only women suffer. During all those weary months I was confined to my bed, and room, and was attended by different physicians, and tried various remedies, but without avail. I heard of your success in treating diseases by electricity, and resolved to try your treatment, with but little faith, however, that I could be cured. But I now rejoice to know that you, under divine providence, have restored my health. And I feel it a duty I owe to the afflicted, to make my case known, and to recommend your system, for the treatment of similar cases.

Respectfully,

MINNIE MADSEN.

H. E. Grow:

Dear Sir:—About seven years ago I was attacked with typhoid fever and during the protracted illness which followed, my hearing became so much impaired that I couldn't hear unless spoken to in the loudest voice, for all these years I have endured this distressing misfortune without finding relief, until I tried your Electric Treatments for Deafness, and I am now most happy to state that you have restored my hearing so that I can distinctly hear when spoken to in the ordinary way and can converse with my friends as I could before this affliction came upon me.

The Manchester Guardian, June 8th, 1883.

At one of the "Windows."

Looking on the woodland ways! With clumps of rhododendrons and great masses of May blossoms!!! "There was an interesting group."

It included one who had been a "Cotton spinner," but was now so Paralyzed!!!

That he could only bear to lie in a reclining position.

This refers to my case. I was Attacked twelve years ago with "Locomotor Ataxy!"

(A paralytic disease of the nerve fibre rarely cured)

and was for several years barely able to get about.

And for the last Five years not able to attend to my business, although

Many things have been done for me. The last experiment being Nerve stretching, Two years ago I was voted into the Home for Incurables! Near Manchester, in May, 1882.

I am no "Advocate." "For anything in the shape of patent" Medicines?

And made many objections to my dear wife's constant urging to try Hop Bitters, but finally to pacify her—

Consented!!!

I had not quite finished the first bottle when I felt a change come over me.

This was Saturday, November 3rd. On Sunday morning I felt so strong I said to my room companions, "I was sure I could Walk!"

So started across the floor and back. I hardly knew how to contain myself. I was all over the house. I am gaining strength each day, and can walk quite safe without any "stick!"

On Support

I am now at my own house, and hope soon to be able to earn my own living again. I have been a member of the Manchester "Royal Exchange"

For nearly thirty years, and was most heartily congratulated on going into the room on Thursday last. Very gratefully yours, JOHN BLACKBURN.

MANCHESTER, (Eng.) Dec. 24, 1883.

Two years later am perfectly well.

THE GENEVA NURSERIES

A New York Tribune representative recently had occasion to visit the well-known and justly celebrated "Geneva Nurseries," which are situated near the village of Geneva, Ontario County, N. Y., and now extend over an area of 500 acres.

These Nurseries were established in the year 1846 by Messrs. William and Thomas Smith, the present proprietors, and are now the largest in the country.

A thorough inspection of the various departments of these Nurseries evinces the fact that every possible care and precaution is taken in the dissemination of varieties, and so thorough is the system that it is almost impossible for an error to occur.

This is an all-important point for the public, for it insures to them that whatever they may purchase from W. & T. Smith will be true to name.

Immense packing sheds and cellars have been erected for the packing of seeds and plants, and no expense or labor has been spared to provide facilities to insure the handling of the stock in the best possible manner.

The Messrs. Smith cultivate an immense assortment and variety as well in the Ornamental as in the Fruit Department, in fact everything is grown here that is hardy and worthy of cultivation.

To accomplish all this has taken many years of hard work and a large outlay of money, and of all this their customers have the benefit.

The soil is gravelly, with a heavy clay sub-soil, particularly well adapted to the growth of trees, which fact has been fully proven, for they have shipped thousands of trees to far distant sections of the country for many years past, viz. The Territories of Montana, Dakota, Utah, etc., etc. A large shipment will be made in the spring for Utah.

Trees for this remote section are packed in boxes specially made for the purpose, and always reach their destination in the best possible condition.

It is a notable fact that the trees grown in the Geneva Nurseries transplant better than those raised in any other section, withstanding severe cold and extreme heat, with no injury. The soil produces healthy, long-lived trees, which is of the greatest importance to every planter.

Another very important fact is, that being furnished with a more abundant supply of healthy, well-ripened and fibrous roots, they bear transplanting to a different soil and climate much better. In the cold Northern Territories, thriving orchards of trees that were raised in the Geneva Nurseries and which are now producing beautiful fruit, prove their hardiness, and again in the extreme South the contra test of their ability to stand extreme heat is proven by the fact that the Messrs. Smith have sold large quantities of their stock for many years past to the leading Southern nurserymen, and it has always given the very best of satisfaction.

The firm showed us letters from the leading nurserymen of the country, as well as from the leading fruit growers and others who have dealt with them for the last quarter of a century, all testifying to the fine quality of the stock and the very satisfactory manner in which the business has been conducted. No firm in the nursery business stands higher, none is better known, and none more deserving of patronage.

The Retail Department now employ over two hundred agents, and it is the intention of the firm to largely increase the number of their salesmen this season.

This firm can be constantly recommended, both to purchasers of nursery stock, and to parties wanting situations, as trustworthy in every respect.

Those seeking employment will find them a good firm to work for, and backed by their well-established reputation for good stock and fair dealing, an agent who is earnest in his work can command success. These are the only nurseries in the country known as the "Geneva Nurseries."
